

Death Claims Two More. ~

GEORGE HOMRIGHAUSEN.

On Sunday afternoon at about three o'clock the soul of George Homrighausen passed from earth to find new life where suffering and sorrow is unknown. His death was not unexpected, and he awaited the coming of the end with a fortitude of a soldier, and with the calmness of the christian who is at peace with his God and his fellow men. Those he leaves will always remember him as a truly good man, steadfast in his beliefs and consciencious in his daily acts. His virtues were many and his faults few, consequently to know him was to admire, respect and love him.

On September 27, 1854, he was born at Girkhausen, Wittgenstein, Germany, and came to America in August, 1880, locating near here where he worked on neighboring farms for four years.

On September 3, 1884, he was united in marriage with Mrs. Katherine Schneider (nee Keller) with whom a happy and peaceful as well as busy and useful life was passed until her death which occurred March 18th, 1914. This loss no doubt hastened his death, or at least made his fate less fearsome, in a desire to again be with the faithful helpmate.

He leaves five children: Mrs. Fred Schneider, Joseph, Emil, Rudolph and Henry, besides the many near and dear friends, who mourn the loss of a kind and loving father, a true friend and an honored citizen.

The funeral takes place to-day with services at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneider at 10:00 a. m., and at the Reformed church at 11:00 a. m., followed by burial at St Paul's cemetery. Rev. John Gatermann will conduct the services.

Published November 18, 1914 in the Wheatland Gazette.

All of the children named are stepchildren (from Katherine's first marriage).
